Sports-Odds.com are issuing a 2009 Belmont Stakes Odds Alert at 5:30 PM EST for Dunkirk, Mr. Hot Stuff and Chocolate Candy. All three of these 2009 Belmont Stakes odds contenders are getting pounded by the betting public and horse bettors should jump on these future odds as soon as possible.

Dunkirk is currently sitting at 4 to 1 Belmont Stakes odds, down from his morning line of 5 to 1 odds. Mr. Hot Stuff is currently sitting at 15 to 1 Belmont odds, down from his morning line of 18 to 1 odds. Chocolate Candy is currently sitting at 10 to 1 Belmont odds, down from a morning line of 12 to 1 odds. Summer Bird is currently sitting at 12 to 1 odds with horse racing bettors losing interest in this horse since his morning line was set at 10 to 1 odds.

"He (Summer Bird) ran a very big race in the Arkansas Derby," stated 2009 Belmont Stakes Odds expert and speed chart impresario of Thoro-Graph Jerry Brown when asked to comment on the 2009 Belmont Stakes odds of contender Summer Bird. "He came back three weeks later in the Kentucky Derby and he didn't run badly. He was very wide on both turns. He may not be on the same level as some others at their best, but he has some license to improve and at a price he could figure in the finish."

The 141st running of the Belmont Stakes takes place live from Belmont Park in Elmont, New York with the post time set at 6:27 PM EST. Coverage on ABC Sports and ESPN 360 has already started. Sports-Odds.com urges horse racing bettors to hurry up and get your final 2009 Belmont picks in now.
