
Serena Williams Beaten by 14 year-old

Contributed by Alexander Banks
Thursday, 16 July 2009
Last Updated Thursday, 30 July 2009

Serena Williams Beaten by 14 year-old, Madison Keys: The new No.1 ranked player in the world, Serena Williams, was stunned in dramatic fashion this week, as she was beaten by the youngest player in WTT history, 14-year-old, Madison Keys (5-1).

With powerful groundstrokes and blistering service games, the high school freshman (not college) defeated the 10-time Grand Slam champion in a match that didn't mean much to anyone except for the teen born in 1995.

Even though it was an exhibition World TeamTennis match, one cannot ignore the fact that she beat the: 4-time Australian Open/ 1-time French Open/2-time Wimbledon/3-time US Open winner!

Speaking of the 2009 U.S. Open, who do you think will win the women's draw? Do you like one of the Williams to win it, or perhaps someone else?

Leave the guessing game to the rookies, this is how the pros do it: for a complete list of 2009 US Open Betting Odds, Men's or Women's Draw, please visit the best sports betting odds makers in tennis, Bodog.com!

However, before you do make your 2009 US Open Betting Odds Picks, get the latest sports betting odds for your free sports picks from the best online 2009 US Open Betting Odds sportsbooks. As a treat, here are the top-5 sports betting odds favorites to win the 2009 US Open (women's draw):

Serena Williams [15/8]

Venus Williams [11/2]

Maria Sharapova [8/1]

Victoria Azarenka [9/1]

Dinara Safina [10/1]

For a complete list of 2009 US Open Betting Odds please visit Bodog.com. Also, don't forget to Bet on the 2009 US Open Betting Odds at online sportsbook Bodog.com and receive a 10% Deposit Bonus... Don't wait another second, start winning today!