
Herschel Walker vs Greg Nagy MMA Strikeforce Miami Betting Odds

Contributed by Abe Luciano
Friday, 29 January 2010
Last Updated Sunday, 31 January 2010

Herschel Walker vs Greg Nagy MMA Strikeforce Miami Betting Odds: With just hours away from MMA Strikeforce Miami Odds, former football star Herschel Walker [1/5 or -350 ML] will be making his awaited and controversial entrance into the cage to take on unknown, sports betting odds underdog (1-1) Greg “Dangerous” Nagy [3/1 or +275 ML] on Saturday night at the BankAtlantic Center in Sunrise, Florida.

The 47-year-old Walker and the 26-year-old Nagy heavyweights will highlight a night of MMA fights in Miami that include the Strikeforce debut of pro-wrestling’s Bobby Lashley vs Wes Sims as well as Cris “Cyborg” Santos first title defense vs Marloes Coenen. For a complete list of MMA Strikeforce Miami Odds please visit SPORTSBOOK.com.

After an illustrious football career that includes a Heisman Trophy (1982), two Pro Bowls (1987-88) and many other accomplishments, the former running back is trying to defy the odds and begin a professional MMA career at almost 50 years old. Some people have called it a circus while others have said its ridiculous, but for Walker it’s all about the love for the sport and the experience.

Walker has been training with Bob Cook at American Kickboxing Academy in California and has been grappling with guys like UFC heavyweight title-contender Cain Velasquez. Other UFC guys training at AKA include Josh Koscheck, Mike Swick, and Jon Fitch, as well as former Strikeforce lightweight champion Josh Thomson and middleweight king Cung Le.

“I’m not saying I’m not going to be nervous when I enter that locker room and as I’m walking down to that cage I might get a little but nervous there,” Herschel said in a recent interview. “I think as soon as that door close, I know then it’s time to get it on and that’s what I gotta do.”

Bet on Herschel Walker vs Greg Nagy MMA Strikeforce Miami Betting Odds and get a 50% Deposit Bonus & $25 Free Bet at Sportsbook.com, simply use promo code WIN100 and start winning today!